What do they look like?

Pandas are huge,
fluffy and cute.

They are black and white.

What do they eat?

They eat a lot of food like bamboo and fruit.

They live in zoos, trees, forest, in Asia and high in the mountains of China for millions of years.

Where do they live?

How do they have babies?

The babies are called panda cubs. They have 5 to 6 at one time. Panda cubs drink their mother's milk. Their habitat is in China. The cubs are small like an ice cream sandwich. Panda cubs are pink and black. They give birth to live young.

Some pandas are red too. They eat bamboo too. They weigh 150 pounds. Some pandas can roll very fast. It takes four years to grow fully. Can't run fast but they are good swimmers and climbers.
